Honorable William Preston Lane, Jr.
Governor of Maryland
Annapolis, Maryland

My dear Governor Lane:

I take pleasure in transmitting herewith a copy of the Commission's latest publication "Manual of Coordinates for Places in Maryland," prepared as a supplement to its "Gazetteer of Maryland," which was released in 1941. This manual is proposed to fill a need for the identification of places throughout the State, most of which have been difficult to locate on any map of practical scale.

Various State agencies, public utilities, private enterprise, and the lay public have been seeking such a compilation for many years. The system of reference employed herein is now being used in connection with all State maps, particularly those of the State Roads Commission and the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources. It is expected that this manual will encourage the use of plane coordinates, which the Maryland Legislature legalized in 1939.

I wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge your splendid cooperation in making this publication possible.

Very truly yours,

Henry P. Irr

INTRODUCTION

This manual embodies a simple method for locating some 12,000 places within the State. It has been compiled and printed in a form convenient for field use and is intended to enhance the value of maps and other geographic information, particularly, the Gazetteer of Maryland, which was published in 1941.

The grid coordinate system of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey was adopted for the State of Maryland by authority of Chapter 628 of the Acts of the Maryland General Assembly of 1939. This system, known as the Maryland Coordinate System, has been utilized in the preparation of the manual.

The principle of this system is the same as that used for locating a point on the surface of the earth by longitude and latitude, but in practice it is simpler. In the longitude-latitude method, a point is defined in degrees, minutes, and seconds to represent its distances from the meridian of Greenwich and the equator; whereas, in the system of plane coordinates used herein a point is designated by actual distances in feet from two imaginary lines, one running east and west, and the other north and south through the point of origin.

The origin of the Maryland Coordinate System has been fixed at a point southwest of the State in order that all coordinates may be to the east and north of it. The coordinates of this point are 0–0, and for the purpose of this manual, the imaginary lines of the grid are spaced at intervals of 1,000 feet bearing due east and due north from this point. By superimposing such a grid on any map of Maryland it becomes possible to define any place shown on the map or to find any place on the map if its coordinates are known.

Two numbers define each place in the alphabetical listing which follows. The first number designates the distance in thousands of feet that the place lies east of the point of origin, and the second, the distance in thousands of feet that the place lies north of the point of origin. The coordinates are given only to the nearest thousand feet, which is adequate for purposes of identification. As an illustration of the use of plane coordinates we will locate the U. S. Naval Academy. The index which follows lists the coordinates of the U. S. Naval Academy as 949–418. In referring to a map of Maryland with the coordinate grid superimposed, we find that the Naval Academy is located at a distance of approximately 949,000 feet to the east and approximately 418,000 feet to the north of the point of origin.

If the grid lines are not spaced at 1,000-foot intervals, it is usually easy to gauge the distances between the lines to locate a place named on the map. However, if the place is not named, it can readily be located by simple scaling.

Maps with the Maryland State Grid superimposed are currently being issued by the Maryland State Roads Commission. Maps of the individual counties as well as those of the entire State are available. Also, all recent quadrangle sheets of the U. S. Geological Survey and maps of the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources carry marginal ticks by means of which the grid may be inscribed.

The work on the Manual of Coordinates for Places in Maryland was started during the war by the Map Section of the Staff of the State Liaison Officer, Colonel Beverly Ober. The State Planning Commission acknowledges the assistance rendered by the Traffic Division of the State Roads Commission of Maryland and the Department of Maryland State Police in the compilation of material for this publication.

LOCATION OF NUMBERED HIGHWAYS

The listing which follows is designed for rapid location of numbered highways within the State. The principal source of information used in this summary is contained in the report on "State and U. S. Numbered Highways," January 1, 1947, prepared by Mr. Thomas H. McNulty, Maintenance Department, State Roads Commission. Numbers which were not assigned to any road at that time have been left blank. As there is no duplication in numbering between the State roads and the national highways, no distinction between the two is made in this listing.

There are many numbered highways, particularly in the higher numbers, which may be unimportant from the point of view of the user of this index. In most cases these are State-maintained streets within towns and are not designated in the field by road markers. Such roads are nevertheless included, but are designated by an asterisk following the coordinates to indicate that the number does not appear on the General Highway Map of the State. Many abandoned rights-of-way, State-maintained approaches to bridges, overpasses and grade-crossing eliminations which bear designating numbers for maintenance charges have also been included and are asterisked.

Inasmuch as a road is represented on a map by a line, any one of a number of sets of coordinates might be selected to define the road. The coordinates have therefore been chosen on the basis of the following considerations:

1. The point should be approximately midway between the ends of the highway. In some cases where there are two separate sections, as for example, State Route 404 where portions are on opposite sides of Chesapeake Bay, two sets of coordinates are given.
2. The point should preferably be away from other roads or road junctions for positive identification. Care has been taken to select locations in open spaces where there would be less likelihood of confusion with new roads which may appear on future maps.
3. The point should be designated by coordinates easily remembered, particularly numbers for which grid lines would probably be used, such as even hundreds and multiples of 50 or 10. Wherever possible grid lines crossing the road at nearly right angles have been selected.

DIRECTIONS

Coordinates in this Manual are readily converted to geographic latitude and longitude. They are in abbreviated form rounded to the nearest thousand feet, 847-492 standing for x = 847,000 ft. east and y = 492,000 ft. north. The two parts separated by the hyphen are spoken of as the x and y respectively of the place.

Find in Table 1 the range of values within which the x lies and subtract the correction shown from the y value to give y'. This is the y of the point where the parallel of latitude crosses the central meridian.

To convert this y' to latitude, use Table 2 giving y' for each even degree. Minutes may be found by multiplying the difference between y' and the tabular values by 0.1647.

When x is less than 800, the place lies west of the 77th meridian whereas if greater it is to the east. In Table 3 find the range in which y' lies and multiply the difference between the x value and 800 by the given factor. The result is the number of minutes, to be added to 77° if west, or subtracted if east.

As a rule the coordinates in the Manual were taken from large scale maps read to an accuracy of the nearest unit (1,000 ft.) corresponding to a sixth of a minute in latitude and a fifth of a minute in longitude. The results of conversion by this method can be expected to be accurate within 0.3 of a minute.

The Bureau of Control Surveys and Maps was created under authority of Act of Legislature in 1939 and is prepared to assist in problems dealing with surveys, location of control points, maps suitable for general and special purposes, geographic positions, plane coordinates, map projections, grids, etc.

One activity has been the extension of the card index from which this Manual of Coordinates was compiled so that it now includes approximately 40% more items than in the published volume.
